

Techdirt

COVID Drove A Big Jump In Community Broadband Networks

Fierce Video

Charter CFO scolds programmers for cost inflation

Fierce Wireless

Verizon on track for TracFone deal to close in Q4

LightReading

Cable access market rises as broadband CPE biz struggles in Q2 – Dell'Oro

Broadband Breakfast

Outreach 'Most Valuable Thing' for Emergency Broadband Benefit Program: Rosenworcel

CNET

Cable, fiber, 5G and more: The different internet connection types and how they work

Southern Maryland News

Progress being made on broadband in Southern Maryland; however, problems remain

Politico

Biden taps privacy advocate Alvaro Bedoya for FTC

USA Today

Twitter did not violate election laws when it throttled Hunter Biden article, FEC rules

Associated Press

Apple fixes security hole reportedly used to hack an iPhone

Huffington Post

Tucker Carlson Admits He Sometimes Lies On His Show

Reuters

Fox Entertainment acquires TMZ from AT&T-owned WarnerMedia

Philadelphia Inquirer

Bill McSwain says he's running for governor of Pennsylvania, officially joining competitive GOP primary

LightReading

Charter exploring targeted 'high-split' upstream upgrades

Charter Communications has shed a bit more light on its future "high-split" upgrades that will beef up the amount of capacity dedicated to the upstream on today's DOCSIS 3.1 networks and, down the road, on its future DOCSIS 4.0 networks. But Charter will likely take a targeted approach to a high-split, Chris Winfrey, Charter's chief financial officer, said Monday at the BofA Securities 2021 Media, Communications & Entertainment Conference. "We will invest in high-split ... in markets where we think it's attractive to do so, and maybe as a bridge to transition to DOCSIS 4.0," he said.

READ MORE

Allentown Morning Call

Pennsylvania Gov. Tom Wolf pulls nominee for state's elections chief, slams Senate GOP over handling Democratic Gov. Tom Wolf on Monday withdrew his nominee to be Pennsylvania's top elections official, accusing state Senate Republicans of turning the confirmation process into a partisan charade. Wolf said Republican leaders were seeking a "record number" of hearings to confirm his acting secretary of state, Veronica Degraffenreid, and said she has been the victim of desperate and baseless smears by the top-ranking GOP leader. Wolf nominated Degraffenreid to head the Department of State in March, calling her a nationally respected elections administration expert with experience heading up voting operations in North Carolina. She ascended to the head of the department after Secretary of State Kathy Boockvar abruptly resigned in February because her agency had failed to advertise a proposed constitutional amendment.

READ MORE

Broadband Cable Association of Pennsylvania

